give it a break.

Screen savers are not energy savers.
A computer in sleep mode uses about 70% less energy than a computer without power management features, and a monitor in sleep mode uses 90% less energy. To save 100%, shut it down!

*statistics from the United States Department of Energy

Yale Office of Sustainability